The New York Women's Foundation Announces Nearly $3 Million in Grants to Address Needs of Women and Families in New York City

Awards 49 organizations working to promote economic security for women and families across NYC

The New York Women's Foundation (The Foundation) announced a total of $2,910,000 in grants awarded to 49 organizations working to promote economic security for women and families across New York City. As the largest women's fund in the United States, The Foundation supports women-led, gender competent, community-based responses and solutions to achieve long-lasting change for NYC's women and families.

These grants address a range of issues across The Foundation's core focus areas of Economic Security, Anti-Violence & Safety, Health, Sexual Rights, and Reproductive Justice. Through key investment strategies, The Foundation is working to strengthen efforts that:

Support girls, young women, and gender fluid youth of color to achieve their full potential to accelerate a shift towards gender and racial equity

Deepen support of emerging grassroots organizations serving historically underinvested communities

Develop partnerships with stakeholders and community members with place-based solutions promoting safety and security

Taken together, these grants address a continuum of complex needs faced by women, girls and families living at or below the poverty level. Since 1987, The New York Women's Foundation has funded over $51 million to over 350 organizations working to meet these needs.
